CROAKEY HEALTH MEDIA

About the CHM Funding Consortium

The Croakey Health Media funding consortium plays a critical role in our sustainability. This funding supports Croakey's operations and public interest journalism. Now more than ever, Croakey needs to rely on consortium funding. Consortium members also play an invaluable role in helping to expand our reach and impact.

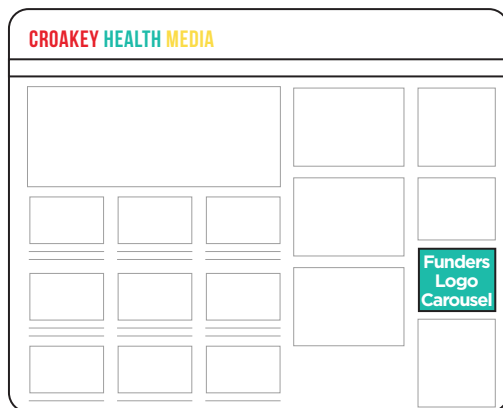

“The COVID-19 pandemic has underscored the importance of robust, independent public interest journalism. We are grateful to members of the Croakey Health Media funding consortium for recognising the importance of public interest journalism for public health and public policy.”

“Consortium membership provides opportunities for organisations to engage with public interest journalism, and to increase the impact of your communications and contributions to broader public debate and policy.”

Kelly Dargan, Strategy & Sustainability, Croakey Health Media
